Three singles, a pair of doubles and ar error, grouped in one inning, won yesterday's game for Philadelphia. After a nipand-tuck contest for seven innings, the heavy Quaker gues opened on Mr. "Yank" Yerkes, and what they did is too saddening record for general circulation. Incidentally, an error of Kruger's started the rout of the Cardinals, Yerkes was first touched for two singles; then he gave a base on balls. Another single, followed by two doubles, completed the turning of the ta-

Collegian White did the twirling for Man ager Shettsline's aggregation, and the locals failed to collect more than three hits on his delivery. None of the St. Louis runs was earned, and three of them were directly traceable to Monte Cross, who gave an ex-hibition of how not to throw to first. Barry chimed in with a wild throw over Jennings and, all together, the Quakers played passe ball in the field. Up to the eighth inning it was 30 cents to a celluloid collar that the Cardinals would win. The firm of Flick, Delehanty & Co., however, soon backed the prices down and placed the odds on the other side. In all, this heavy-hitting aggregation from Eastern Pennsylvania secured fifteen safe raps, including two doubles.

fifteen safe raps, including two doubles.

Roger's men came within a drop of the hat of scoring in the opening, but prospective doings at the home plate were declared null and void on a fast double-play pulled off in the nick of time. The trick was repeated again in the fourth inning, but not before hits by big Del and Hughey Jennings had broken the ice for Philadelphia on a couple of juicy hits.

The chapter of errors which helped the Cardinals to tally thrice in the fourth in-

Cardinals to tally thrice in the fourth In-ning was preceded by two hits. Heidrick scratched a hit—the first made off White-and Padden gave Elmer Flick a chase after and Padden gave Eimer Flick a chase after his poke to right. Flick threw to third, hoping to nab Heidrick, but the latter anchored himself to the sack in plenty of time. Padden going to second. Wallace failed to hit safely in the pinch. Cross overexerted himself on Donovan's drive and threw wild over Jennings, allowing Heidrick and Padden to score. Cross was in bad scain on Richardson's slow hit, and his lob to Jennings was a mile high. Donovan scored on the play and Richardson went tround to third, where he expired on Kruger's grounder to Hallman.

Schriver negotiated his only safe hit in the fifth inning, and it went for two bases. Yerkes sacrificed, but Burkett and Heidrick failed. Dwyer called Jesse out on strikes and Heidrick grounded to Cross. The locals scored once more in the seventh inning, thanks to Barry. Richardson was the first man up and Barry threw high in trying to locate Jennings, Rich, encircied three bases while McFarland was capturing the ball, which rolled over near the grand stand. Kruger found to Jenning. ing the ball, which rolled over near the grand stand. Kruger fouled to Jennings, and it was up to "Handy Billi" Schriver to bring Richardson in, which he did on a rap to Cross. Three men up and all out was the order in which the Cardinals batted through the two closing innings.

was the order in which the Cardinals batted through the two closing innings.

The Fatal Eighth Inning.

The disastrous inning was ushered in by Flick's slow rap to center. Delehanty negotiated his fourth single, a neat rap to center. Heidrick scooped in the leather and threw to third to head off Flick. Elmer beat the ball, however, and Del, kept right on going. Kruger's throw to Wallace at second was high. It struck the tip of Wallace's hand, knocked off Fadden's cap, and was finally corraled by Heidrick.

Flick scored and Del, went to third. McFarland registered the first out, scoring Delehanty and came near going safe himself on Wallace's poor throw. Richardson, however, duplicated his trick of Wednesday by tagging McFarland in the path. These occurrences, of course, did nothing to steady the nerves of "Tank" Yerkes, and Hughey Jennings drew a base on balls. Hallman singled, advancing Jennings to third. Monte Cross atoned for his errors by smashing a two-basger to center, scoring Jennings and Hallman. White landed on the ball for a two-base hit, scoring Cross with the fifth run. Thomas struck out and Harry ended the agonizing inning with a fly to Heidrick. The score:

PEOPLE WE KNOW,

They Are St. Louis People, and What They Say Is of Local Interest. When an incident like the following occurs right here at home, it is bound to carry weight with our readers. So many strange occurrences go the round of the press—are published as facts—people become skeptical. On one subjects skepticism is rapidly disappearing. This is due to the actual experience of our citizens, and their public utterances regarding them. The doubter must doubt no more in the face of such evidence as this. The public statement of a reputable citizen living right here at home, one whom you can see every day, leaves no ground for the skeptic to stand on.

JOYCE WORKS AGAIN TO-DAY.

Al Orth Probably Will Twirl the Second Game for Philadelphia.

Joe Joyce will likely go to the box for the Cardinals to-day. Manager Donovan said last night that it was up to Powell or Joyce, but as the management is using the end-of-the-season games to try out young blood, Joyce will get the preference. Al Orth will work for Shettsline. Orth has a good record of shut-out games and is much respected and feared.

Heidrick gave an exhibition of lazy ball playing in the eighth inning. He hit to Hailman, and, after heaving his bat to one side stopped short in his tracks, while Hallman shot the ball over to Jeanings. For Richardson received a demonstration of the evil effects of slow moving in the sixth inning. Flick rapped the ball almost in Richardson's hands. The latter was playing to one side and some distance back of his base, and when he smothered the ball started leisurely to cover the base. He miscalculated Flick's speed, and when he finally made a spurt it was too late and Flick went safe.

Games Scheduled for All Over the Country - Several Leading Teams to Take Part-High School Will Play Marion-Sims-Work of Manual Training School Candidates.

OSCAR MURDOCK, FRANK SATELO AND JOE MCCARTHY OF THE CHRISTIAN BROTHERS' FOOTBALL SQUAD.

Members of the Washington University football squad opened practice at Athletic Park yesterday afternoon under the supersision of Wayne Smith, captain of last year. football squad opened practice at Athletic Park yesterday afternoon under the supervision of Wayne Smith, captain of last year. About eighteen candidates were out, the ellgible material represented being of an average weight of about 160 ponds.

One of the newcomers was Billy Logan, who will attend the St. Louis Law School this year. Until he decided upon this step he acted as manager for the Marion-Sime team. Schull was out at work in the position of half back. Hope was trying for tackle or quarter, Ellers, one of last year's men, was at center, and Forder was at end. Lehman, Goebel, C. Hollman, Bader, Hall, Curtis and Kramm were also out.

Gordon Clark of Chicago, a man highly recommended by Coach Stagg of the University of Chicago, will coach the Washington team this year. He will be out today. Captain Benner will also show up at practice this afternoon.

Washington will probably have as heavy a team as any college in the city, to judge from present material, St. Louis University being about the same in prospect of weight. It is estimated that the S. L. U. men will average between 155 and 160. The C. B. C. team, it is believed, will be in the neighborhood of 150 pounds as an average.

team, it is believed, will be in the neighborhood of 159 pounds as an average.

Captain Finnegan of the Manual Training School had his men out at Athletic Park also late in the afternoon. Few men of last year's team or with much football experience have shown up as yet, but the outlook for the school is not bad. McPheeters will probably coach the team this season.

Men out vesterday were Chase Bicker. Men out yesterday were Chase, Ricker, Dickey, Brown, Burger, Berkley and Allen-der. Likely candidates for the eleven are True, the three Johnsons, Cherbonier and Baker. This will give fourteen candidates of, considerable merit from which to select the team. Practice will be held every after-noon at Athletic Park.

At the Missouri State University the team is showing up reasonably well. One of the best end men that has appeared for some time past is W. R. Scudder of Kearney, Mo., who is regarded as a promising candidate. He is expected to make the team without trouble.

Scudder has practiced for the last two seasons. The necessity of returning to his home last season kept him from playing with the team except in a desultory fashion. He is of moderate weight and should be a valuable acquisition to the team.

From present indications, Smith Academy will have a good team this season. All the men who have showed up so far as handling themselves well, and displaying considerable ability in team work. Although few of last year's men are back, several candidates have had previous experience as subs on smaller football teams.

still raw and green in practice work. They display none of that finish in their performance that the Smith boys do.

The football season opens to-morrow and several games are scheduled for the leading teams of the country, including those of Harvard, Yale, Corneil, Pennsylvania and Chicago. A game that will be watched with great interest by local players, is that between the University of Kansas and Ottawa University at Lawrence.

This last meeting will give some idea of the capacity of the Kansas team this season, and while the Jaybawks should prove easy winners, the probable line-up of the team will, at least, be indicated. Missourians are entertaining strong hopes that the Missouri-Kansas game will be won by M. S. U. this season, and the performance of their opponents will be watched with interest.

Chicago will meet Monmouth to-morrow and should give that college a drubbing. Yale should perform the same office to Trinity College, Cornell to Colgate. Princeton to Villa Nova and Pennsylvania to Lehigh. From the reports emanating from Cambridge it might be deduced that Williams College would give the Harvard team some trouble to-morrow.

The last report from Pennsylvania was to the effect that practically an entire team must be developed from light and new material, the average weight of the linemen being about 165 pounds, with the average weight of the other considerably less.

Butler, Dale, Sloan, Snook, Perry, Magee, Howard, Large, Weede and Keller all show promise as back-field men. Yet from sizing up the present material, old football men say that the only chance of success this season is for Pennsylvania to develop and utilize the speed of this back field. A line-bucking system of play is not thought possible for Pennsylvania to see Pennsylvania make a good record for itself, after all. In an informal line-up of the squad into two teams last week the men were placed as follows:

The only game scheduled for this city for to-morrow is that between the Marion-Sims team and the High School. This contest was decided upon a second time after the days have been declared off the superior It had once been declared off, the superior weight of the Marion-Sims men making the proposition seem a little too hard for the High School. The teams will probably come together at Handlan's Park.

Smith Academy has closed a lease on Pas-time Park and will hold its practice and games there this season. The coursing club will hold its meets there for the next four Saturdays and Sundays, but it is not believed that this will interfere with the Smiths' work.

TIGERS EXPECT TO WIN MANY GAMES.

University Football Team Will Have Its First Contest To-Morrow.

MADE UP OF GOOD MATERIAL

Coach Murphy Well Pleased With the Showing Made by the Men So Far.

Columbia, Mo., Sept. 26.—At the end of the first twelve days practice it is safe to predict that the Tigers for the year 1901 will win 75 per cent of their games. The first contest which the team has engaged in this season was one on Rollins's Field Saturday afternoon against the "Cubs," with a result of 10 to 5 in favor of the Tigers. It was merely a practice game, but it was, indeed, a fierce struggle. The Cubs are a game aggregation, and it is probable that some of them will replace some of the are a game aggregation, and it is probable that some of them will replace some of the men who have been selected to represent the 'varsity in the first game on next Saturday, when a game will be played with Wil-iam Jewell College or the Warrensburg State Normal School team. The line-up Sat-urday was this:

Center
Left tackle
Porrester Right half Van Hall
Bennett Jeft half Washer
Nick Hall Full back Frampton
A large crowd of the team's followers watched the game Saturday afternoon and there was great enthusiasm. There was much hard line bucking and the players exhibited with a vim never before manifested on the Columbia gridiron. The only spectacular play of the day was a get-away to the credit of Martin, who went through kirk for a goal. The team was about the center of the field when Martin by a very clever piece of running and dodging succeeded in putting the pigskin, home. Martin received tremendous applause. The coach is greatly encouraged over the team's showing. Doctor Heatherington is also greatly elated over the prospects and declares that lack of equipment shall not interfere with or impede the team's progress.

"There will be no regularly defined first and second teams this year," said Coach Murphy to-day. "A squad of twenty-two of the best men will be selected and these will all be Tigers. Those who show up best during the preceding week of practice shall be allowed places in the game. Those who play with the most pluck and vim, therefore, will play in the game next Saturday.

Among the most likely new men on the gridiron this season are: Dudley. Wolf, Perry, Kirk, Forrester, Bennett, Nick Hall, O'Hara, Whitehail, Hamilton, Barnes, Roberts, Martin, Van Hall, Washer and Cable.

Followers of the

Roberts, Martin, Van Hall, Washer and, Cable.

Followers of the game will instantly recognize the name Washer. The young man is one of the best on the field, but lacks the experience of some of the other men. He is the brother of Captain Charles Washer, the most popular captain the team ever had, and one of the best men ever on the University team. Captain Washer is in Columbia this week and goes out to the field with great regularity to watch the men whom he would have captained had he not nearly succumbed to an attack of typhoid fever, which has rendered him unable to take his place in the harness this season.

Young Washer is very much like his brother, and the locals are expecting to hear from him the latter part of the season or anyway, by the first of next season.

YANGER GOT THE DECISION FROM DIXON.

Full Fifteen Rounds Fought Before a Great Crowd at the West End Club.

WHITE BOY WON BY HARD WORK

Put His Blows Where They Had the Most Effect-George Siler Was the Referee.

After fifteen rounds of hard and fast fighting at the West End Collseum last evening, Benny Yanger, the Tipton Slasher, was given the decision over George Dixon former feather-weight champion of the world, by Referee George Siler. Throughout the fight Yanger appeared to be the stronger, and his infighting wore Dixon down terribly, the latter seeming to e going in the second round. The former champion pulled up well in the eighth and ninth rounds, so much so that the issue at one time appeared doubtful. Yanger's body punches were him down in the closing round, however, and he was very tired and weak when the last round closed.

Yanger used both hands in the fight, ham mering Dixon and playing especially for the abdomen. Dixon kept leading with his left for the jaw, but landed far oftener on left for the jaw, but landed far oftener on the back of Yanger's head than on his face. Dixon seemed entirely unable to prevent Yanger from getting in blows regularly on the stomach whenever the latter pleased. In the second round Dixon seemed to have about all he could handle, Yanger rushing him to the ropes, hammering him at will upon the abdomen and knocking him about the ring in Terry McGovern fashion. He showed particular cleverness, too, in getting inside of Dixon's leads and punches for his face and jaw, ducking and dodging the majority of Dixon's leads and counters while swinging both his hands as hard as he could at Dixon's ribs.

Dixon Shows Old-Time Skill.

In the eighth round Dixon showed some of his old-time skill, and, by cleverly blocking Yanger's blows and commencing to lead for the Slasher's face, he had the aspect of the fight changed for an instant. It was only for an instant, however, and in the only for an instant, however, and in the succeeding rounds Yanger had him at his mercy.

Dixon stood punishment remarkably well, and though his abdomen was red and swollen, as were his ribs, from Yanger's punching, he kept gamely at his work, leading fruitlessly at times and again with effect for Yanger's jaw. He had the latter's eyes in bad condition in the closing rounds.

The fight was as good an exhibition as could be seen, but the arrangements for the audience were bad. Holders of tickets were turned down at the door by irresponsible employes, and those with reserved-seat checks coming late in several cases found their places occupied.

George Siler arrived from Chicago yesterday and refereed both bouts of the evening, an opening contest of six rounds between Dummy Schenck and Jim McFarland being put on as an opener. McFarland seemed to have the best of the bout, but the decision rendered was a draw. A battle royal between six negroes opened the sport of the evening.

The feature of the evening was the last bout on the programme. Ben Morrison was announced as tinekeeper, Ed Curry and Jack Sims seconded Dixon and Harry Gilmore and Jack Cento were in Yanger's corner. Dixon's weight was announced as 121 pounds and Yanger's as 124, but the latter looked far more than three pounds heavier than his sleader opponent.

Dixon was warmly received when he entered the ring, but the sympathy of a majority of the crowd seemed to be with Yanger. The men were notified that they could protect then selves in clinches. In other words, that hitting in clinches was allowed.

In other words, that hitting in clinches was allowed.

The men were called for the first round about 9:30 o'clock.

Round 1. Dixon fiddled for a moment and led left for Yanger's jaw; the latter ran in, receiving a hard left in the face, which did not seem to bother him much, and tried to land right and left. Dixon got out of the way and landed left twice. Yanger ducking into left swing. Yanger rushed in aguin and did some clever dodging of Dixon's lefts.

Round 2. Yanger landed left on Dixon's jaw. Dixon rushed him to his corner, but Yanger responded with hard rights and lefts on the ribs, knocking Dixon all over the ring and slamming him in the stomach and ribs as he pleased. Dixon seemed unable to stop blows or to withstand Yanger's rush. The latter had all the best of the round and Dixon seemed thread at the dose.

In the third and fourth rounds Yanger did practically all the leading, Dixon contenting himself with countering and attempting to block. All his blows passed over Yanger's shoulder, however, the latter adopting the McGovern style of fighting and kept slamming away at Dixon with both hands.

In the fifth round Yanger landed several hard blows, making Dixon gasp, sending his left and right alternately hard to the stomach. Dixon tried to run in, but was stopped with a hard left to the stomach. Dixon uppercut lightly twice, but without hurting Yanger. Yanger rushed Dixon to the ropes, and the round ended with Dixon on the lower rope, where he had slipped.

Dixon Countered Effectively.

In the sixth round Dixon seemed to get falling cn him. For the next two rounds the fight became a steady pummeling of Dixon's ribs, with an occasional right or left to face on Yanger's part, while Dixon responded lightly, and occasionally, seeming unable to reach Yanger where he wanted.

At the close of the twelfth Yanger rushed, but Dixon cleverly sidestepped, Yanger falling to the floor in his rush, Dixon showed some good tootwork throughout.

Up to the closing round the conditions remained the same, although Dixon was very tired in the thirteenth and fourteenth. Yanger was also tired, but could hit hard enough to keep Dixon busy. The last round found both men weak, with Yanger landing on Dixon's ribs and the latter getting in an occasional light counter.

Referee Siler declared Yanger the winner. Throughout the fight the men clinched repeatedly and much of Yanger's infighting was accomplished with Dixon clinging to his neck. Dixon did not attempt to hold and hit at the same time and Referee Siler stated after the fight that his clinging to Yanger had little effect on the latter.

The principal items are the following: Beer. $2,839,295; documentary stamps $1,000, 104; tobacco, $781,146; legacles, $285,119; spe-cial taxes, $387,290.

Powerful and Speedy Engines.

The new locomotives, Nos. 1986 and 1987, of the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad are the largest passenger engines in the world. Each stands twenty-eight tons on its rear drivers, and carries 206 pounds of steam. The driving wheels are 7 feet high. They were built at the Schenectady Locomotive Works. A smaller engine of the same class on the New York Central recently drew the Empire State express from New York to Albany, 142 miles, in twenty minutes less than its schedule time. One of the New Jersey engines has run from Haddonfield Junction to Atlantic City, 3ft-ty-two miles, in forty-five minutes, pulling a twelve-car Pullman train: Pennsylvania officers say they are the most advanced type of locomotives in the world. They are called class E-2X. The chief peculiarity in the new engines is that the driving power is applied to the rear driving wheel by a direct rod, thence by a paraillel rod to the front driver. This arrangement does away with the angular thrust, with its lost power, between cross-head and crank pin, that the direct application of the driving power to the front driving wheel gives.
